Message from the Headteacher

Another week of Home Learning and we are constantly in awe of your provision for your children at home. Obviously we are all waiting the Sunday announcement by the Government on the possible easing of the Lockdown and how this will impact on Schools. We will update you with our plans as soon as we have them finalised. In the meantime we carry on!

Art and Photography Competition

Some great art and photography from the winners of our recent Spring competition to share this week, well done to all the winners, You can see the winning entries on the website:

Online Brush Party

Heads up for another free online Brush Party event, which looks planned for Wednesday 13 May. 1.30pm-3pm. More details will follow next week.

Everybody Worries Picture Book

I am so impressed with how many of our children are coping in this current climate. However, if your child is finding things difficult, check this free online resource picture book, Everybody Worries, A picture book for children who are worried about Coronavirus.

VE Day

We hope that you have all enjoyed a range of VE Day linked activities this week and will get a chance to commemorate the occasion in some form tomorrow. It has been wonderful to hear of so many children (and families) who have been finding out about the past together and been inspired to do extra research either into the topic in general, or about specific family members. Thank you so much for sharing so much of this with us. If you would like another recommendation, this 20 minute film came to our attention this morning and is (in our opinion) a very well put together summary of the War.
